

Ernest Lawrence Miles

Ernest Lawrence Miles was born in 1897. His father Ernest Edward was a railway signalman. His mother was Ada Kate. Both parents originated from Wiltshire.

The Family

In 1901, the family were living in Lloyds Cottages, Corby.

By 1911, a daughter Ada Louise had been born. Ernest Snr. is still working with the railway. Ernest Jnr. is employed as an "office boy furnace". Also residing at the property is a boarder Ms Eliza Winstone, a teacher.

Military Service

Ernest Lawrence Miles served as a Private in the Bedfordshire Regiment, 5th Battalion (36864).

It is recorded, that Private Miles was killed in action on 29th March 1918 in Palestine. He is buried at the Ramleh War Cemetery, Israel.

The cemetery dates from the First World War, when Ramleh (now Ramla) was occupied by the 1st Australian Light Horse Brigade on 1 November 1917. Field Ambulances, and later Casualty Clearing Stations, were posted at Ramleh and Lydda from December 1917 onwards. The cemetery was begun by the medical units, but some graves were brought in later from the battlefields and from Latron, Sarona and Wilhema Military and Indian Cemeteries.

During the Second World War, this cemetery was used by the Ramla Royal Air Force Station and by various Commonwealth hospitals posted in turn to the area for varying periods.

Ramleh War Cemetery contains 3,300 Commonwealth burials of the First World War, 964 of them unidentified. Second World War burials number 1,168. There are also 891 war graves of other nationalities from both wars, and 525 non-war burials, many from the RAF and garrison stations that were at Ramleh in the inter war years and until the end of the British Mandate in Palestine in 1948.

Within Ramleh War Cemetery will be found The Ramleh 1914-18 Memorial, erected in 1961 to commemorate more than 300 Commonwealth, German and Turkish servicemen of the First World War who lie buried in cemeteries elsewhere in Israel where their graves could no longer be maintained. Only 74 of the casualties are named.

The Ramleh 1939-45 Memorial, commemorating 28 Jewish and non Arab servicemen of the Second World War, and six non-war casualties of the Palestine Police Force, who lie buried in cemeteries elsewhere in Israel where their graves could not be maintained in perpetuity.

The original war cemetery was designed by Sir John J. Burnet, but following the addition of the 1939-45 war graves, the site was extensively remodelled in the 1950s by Alan Stewart, ARIBA.
